

Death toll from Typhoon Lekima in China rises to 30

The death toll from a powerful typhoon sweeping across China's east coast rose to 30 on Sunday, with at least 18 still missing, after torrential downpours forced more than 1 million to leave their homes, the state news media reported.

torrential 奔流的; 倾泻的

downpour 倾盆大雨

Nearly 5 million people in Zhejiang province have been affected by the storm, Typhoon Lekima, which made landfall early Saturday, according to the reports. Many of the deaths occurred in Yongjia County, near the city of Wenzhou, when the collapse of a natural dam set off a flash flood that swept away several people, said CCTV.

landfall 登陆

flash flood 山洪

The typhoon, which packed winds of up to 116 mph, caused major travel disruptions across the region, including in Shanghai, with thousands of flights canceled and train operations suspended. Shanghai Disneyland was closed on Saturday.

mph 英里每小时

In Zhejiang, the typhoon damaged more than 400,000 acres of crops and 34,000 homes, amounting to economic losses of more than $2.2 billion, said Xinhua News Agency, citing provincial authorities.

acre 英亩; 土地

Officials in the city of Linhai, near Taizhou, said on Sunday that the typhoon had caused the worst flooding there in the 70-year history of the People's Republic of China, with water levels as high as 36 feet causing major power failures. State news reports showed people wading through waist-high water in the centuries-old city's narrow alleyways.

feet 英尺

waist 腰部

centuries-old 历史悠久的

alleyway 胡同; 小巷

Lekima, China's ninth typhoon of the year, is expected to make a second landing on Sunday evening farther north in Shandong province, the state news media said. More air travel disruptions are likely.